

VILLA CORDOBA

This privately-owned estate is in a superb geographical location in the Cordoban foothills of the Sierra Morena mountain range and is situated between the towns of Almodóvar de Río and Posadas. It is flanked by the Breña reservoir and the evocative Mediterranean Andalusian forest.

Comprising more than 1,200 hectares, the fields, and meadows around the Country House in Córdoba are used harmoniously and diversely. In addition to raising organic livestock and grassland, various native species can be seen, such as deer, wild boar, roe deer, and partridge.

The main house is a stunning architectural reinterpretation of the classic Andalusian Cortijo or country house. The house is built around an impressive courtyard and offers views over the Breña reservoir and beyond to the incomparable Almodóvar castle. The courtyard is enclosed by adjoining verandas and allows an exceptional light to pervade the entire complex. The rustic Andalusian traditions mix with an attentive English-inspired décor and give the house an unrivaled ambiance.

The property has all the amenities and luxuries one could imagine. There are 10 magnificent suites, 2 lavish lounges, and several other open living areas. The house features an impressive multipurpose pavilion, a carefully decorated dining room where catering services are offered and many outside patio areas. The complex also includes a large garden and a pool that appears to fall into the Breña reservoir. Last but not least, there is a charming chapel, where those who wish to pray may do so while finding peace among the carved sculptures, paintings and intimate decoration.
